Ball at Club de Vingt Gala Event; Dinners Precede Festivity—Brides Are Feted—News of the Diplomats

THE bal masque at the Club de Vingt last evening was perhaps the gayest event of Easter Week and the company which assembled for the third of the series of dances being given for the benefit of the Free Milk for France Fund was a notably brilliant one.

Many dinner parties preceded the ball and a number of guests arrived after the theater, reaching the club in time for the midnight frolic at 11:30. This was the most amusing feature of a particularly festive evening, a group of the prettiest girls in Washington appearing in the role of show girls. Fancy costume was worn by most of the guests, who were also masked, and confetti, serpentines and clever favors were supplied to accentuate the carnival atmosphere.

The revue, which was staged under the direction of Capt. R. R. Glen, of the British Embassy staff, and was given during the evening, opened with "The First Rose of Summer," sung by Miss Kathleen Lester and Louis Thompson, with Miss Lester as the rose.

Among the girls who took part in the revue and were members of the girls' chorus were Miss Mildred Bromwell, Miss Margaret Deebie, Miss Betty Burnett, Miss Kathleen Lester, Miss Polly Brooks, Miss Kathleen Lester, Miss Margaret Harding, Miss Eleanor Johnston, Miss Virginia E. Eckles, Miss Lelia Gordon, Miss Theresa James, Miss Ruth Hitchcock, Miss Adelaide Tuttle, Miss Ruth Wilson and Miss Frances Hampson.

Mrs. Charles Boughton Wood and Miss Lillian Washburn Newlin, secretary of the fund, received the guests. Among the notables present were Mrs. Newton D. Baker, Mrs. Franklin K. Lane, Mrs. Mahlon Pittney, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Corcoran Thom, Brig. Gen. Charles E. C. Viscouni, J. H. de Sibour, James MacVeagh, of Chicago; Carl Vrooman, former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture; Col. and Mrs. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Price Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bacon James, Miss Theresa James, Mrs. Charles Bromwell, Miss Olive Grace, Miss Alva Eno, Mrs. Luke McNamee, and Miss Marion Ains.

Others noted were Vladimir Novitsky, of the Russian embassy, and Mme. Novitsky, M. and Mme. Pouchkareff, Lieutenant Silvercruz, Col. Lamberto Torzi, of the Italian mission; Ronald Campbell, of the British embassy staff; William Phelps Eno, Miss Mary Morgan, Miss Antoinette Graves, Miss Anna Hamlin, Mrs. Blaine Elkins, Miss Marie Sims, Mrs. Taylor Evans, Princess Ghika, Mrs. Roscoe Bulmer, Miss Betty Walmsley, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Laserevitch, and Mr. Georgevitch, of the Serbian legation; Dr. Thomas S. Lee, Dr. Tom Williams, William Bowie Clark, and Ballard Moore.

The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, who are making a long visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Kimsey, in Arizona, went to Waco, Tex., on Wednesday. Mr. Marshall made an address on "Present Day Tendencies."

Miss Grinnell's aunt, Miss Helen Ernst, will preside at the tea table.

Tonight, following the rehearsal, Miss Anna Hamlin, another of the bridesmaids, will entertain at dinner for Miss Russell, Mr. Kuser and the attendants and tomorrow evening, after the bride and bridegroom have started on their wedding journey, Miss Mildred Bromwell will give a dinner for the bridal party and some of the out-of-town guests.

Last evening the popular bride and her attendants dined with Miss Olive Grace, who took her guests later to the ball at the Club de Vingt.

Col. and Mrs. Charles Henry Tenney will entertain at supper tonight in compliment to their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Phelps Tenney, who will be married tomorrow to Roger William Nevins, of Springfield, Mass., and the members of their bridal party.
